

WOOD 493

Final copy binding

One copy of your final WOOD 493 submission must be bound such that it has a rigid cover and spine so that it can stand upright on a shelf (for when it goes to the appropriate library).

The most popular approach is to use a stiff covered, Duo-Tang style binding. One such example is shown below (Accopress is another company that manufactures this type of binding).

The second copy of the report is returned to you. That copy can be spiral bound if that is more convenient for you. Please ensure that any spiral bound copy is sufficiently robust that no pages are likely to fall out from the binding.
